Dike Workers Labor To Save East Levee

EMERGENCY BRINGS DESPERATE EFFORT TO SAVE BARRIERS

Last Dry Parish Faces
Flood If Breaks
Occur

BATON ROUGE, La., May 17.—While flood waters released by the disintegration of the fifty-mile Bayou Des Glaisses levees swept southward through St. Landry parish today, new armies labored under emergency orders on the east bank of the Mississippi in a desperate attempt to hold the levees at Plaquemine Point, eighteen miles south of Baton Rouge.

The waters have broken through the Plaquemine Point barriers eight times during the last three days, two breaks having been finally sealed early today after almost twenty-four hours work. The levees along more than a two mile front are so thoroughly saturated that one walking along the mud and seepage in the breach almost ankle deep in water.

The tremendous volume of water now rushing over west central Louisiana from the Bayou Des Glaisses breaches has reached the southern edge of St. Landry parish today, extending the area of devastating lake south of the 700 square miles since the first bayou crevasse occurred last Thursday afternoon. Since that time virtually the entire levee has been swept into the muddy waters by the force of the flood piled against the retaining wall.

While these waters rushed southward behind the west levees of the Atchafalaya, approximately 200 square miles of semi-marshlands were flooded in Iberville and St. Martin parishes, some thirty miles south of the bay waters, by the overflow of the augmented Atchafalaya beyond the terminus of the retaining levees in that river. Approximately 150 square miles on each side of the river have been covered with one to three feet of water, by this overflow.

Further up the Atchafalaya, new foundation still was threatened today on both banks. A weak spot in the east Atchafalaya levee near Woodside is considered so threatening by relief headquarters here that a special evacuation train is standing by ready to remove 500 persons from the village within a few hours should the water logged dike cave under the still rising waters. At Melville, on the west bank of the river, fifteen miles north, the levee has been considered vulnerable for three days.

A break at either of these points would release the bayou waters into Pointe Coupe parish, the only parish within fifty miles of the Mississippi river south of the old Bayou Des Glaisses not yet under water. A threatened break at Torras, twenty miles further north, would entail virtually the same results, although from that opening the inflow would be under the tremendous pressure of the bayou lake, which has been shooting a cataract into southern Avoyelles parish in walls twenty feet high.

REBELS AROUSED BY WHEELER REPORT

MANILA, P. I., May 17.—Believing Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana to be an apostle of independence, fanatic followers of Flor Intrachero, self-styled "emperor of the Philippines," are planning to raid the provincial government of Occidental Negros, it was reported today.

Information to this effect was telegraphed to Manila by Captain De Jesus, commander of the provincial constabulary. De Jesus added, however, that adequate precautions were taken.

MORE TESTIMONY OF PAJAMA BREAKFAST PARTIES PROMISED

Japanese Servant Tells
Of Visits To Kelly's
Home

LOS ANGELES, May 17.—More testimony about pajama breakfast parties and gin fizzes in the Hollywood apartment of Paul Kelly was promised today at the film actor's trial for the murder of Ray Raymond, musical comedy star.

Kelly's Japanese valet, "Jungle," was on the stand yesterday and told of visits of Raymond's actress widow, Dorothy Mackaye, to the young screen hero's rooms. Asked how many times Miss Mackaye had visited Kelly's apartment, "Jungle" said that before she left for San Francisco for a theatrical engagement he saw her possibly two or three times a week. Upon her return to Hollywood, he continued, the actress increased her visits to an average of five times a week.

Drawn out by close questioning, the house servant furnished the information that on three nights, to his knowledge, the actress remained all night. "Jungle" who explained that he was so called because his name in Japanese means "Big Forest," also told of serving drinks to Kelly and Miss Mackaye on the afternoon preceding the first fight which the state charges, caused Raymond's death. Max Wagner, Kelly's roommate and Miss Helen Wilkinson, a chum of Miss Mackaye, were present and the glasses were passed around half a dozen times.

As Kelly gulped down his last drink, the servant boy noticed he picked up the telephone, and after a brief conversation which "Jungle" could not overhear, the film actor "hustled" out of the house. Kelly returned later, his face and hands covered with blood and explained he had been in a fight. The others had left in the meantime.

Both Miss Wilkinson and Wagner were subpoenaed to take the witness stand when the trial resumed today.

FRANK TINNEY IS AGAIN TAKEN ILL

CHICAGO, May 17.—Physicians today planned to rush Frank Tinney, comedian, to New York, following his collapse here last night during his appearance as an entertainer at a night club. More than 1,000 guests saw Tinney swoon and fall to the floor.

The comedian recently suffered a breakdown while with Earl Carroll's revue.

CANTON WITNESSES AGAINST OFFICIAL ARE GIVEN PARDONS

Action Is Reward For Testimony Against Safety Director

COLUMBUS, O., May 17.—Gov. Donahue today signed pardons for Harry Bouklias and Harry Turner, Canton, effective immediately. Both men had served fifteen months on sentences of one and a half to ten years on perjury charges, following testimony they gave to a grand jury investigating charges of bribery against E. E. Curtis, former director of safety at Canton.

Curtis is scheduled for parole June 17, at the expiration of the minimum term of his sentence.

Recalled later before another grand jury at Canton, Bouklias and Turner presented testimony which was accepted as truthful and which, prosecuting officials declared, led to the conviction of Curtis.

"I have always looked upon the testimony of Bouklias and Turner as a service to the city of Canton and the state of Ohio, and am taking this into consideration in granting them pardons," declared Governor Donahue.

It was announced at the governor's office this morning that neither Bouklias nor Turner knew they were pardoned. Authorization for their release, Jacob Meekstroth, secretary to the governor, announced, will be sent to Warden E. Thomas, at the penitentiary immediately, and the two men will be liberated today.

Bouklias, also known as "Harry, the Greek," charged with being a bootlegger, and Turner, accused of being a gambler, both well-known in the Canton underworld, testified that graft had been collected for Curtis from proprietors of gambling houses and various other places of vice in Canton.

This testimony was submitted both to the grand jury at Canton and at an investigation conducted here by Governor Donahue. Officials at the governor's office appeared to be unable to credit the report that Bouklias and Turner, while incarcerated in the penitentiary here, furnished valuable information to Detective Ora Slater, Cincinnati, and to public officials who participated in the prosecution of persons accused of taking part in the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton, O., Daily News.

Governor Donahue's action in extending executive clemency to Bouklias and Turner followed receipt by the governor of a letter from Price Russell and Dan W. Williams, members of the state clemency board, who recommended commutation so that their sentences would expire May 16 (Monday).

The board, also, submitted to the governor letters addressed to Turner and to Bouklias by Commissioner Pleas Judge Abram W. Agler, Canton, and former prosecuting attorney C. B. McClintock, Stark County, respectively, who favored liberation of the two prisoners.

Judge Agler was the trial judge and McClintock prosecuted the cases against Bouklias and Turner as well as against Curtis.

PRESIDENT BETTER AFTER COLD ATTACK

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Partially recovered from the bronchial cold which confined him to his bed yesterday, President Coolidge returned to his office today and resumed his duties.

Except for a slight huskiness, Mr. Coolidge appeared to suffer no ill effects from his cold.

AHA! ROMANCE AGAIN ENTERS LIFE OF LITTLE MILLCENT

PARIS, May 17.—Romance has again entered the life of Millicent Rogers Salm, youthful divorced wife of Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, in the person of an Argentine beau brummel—Senior Arturo Peralta Ramos.

Although the Countess has been divorced only a few weeks, it was learned today that she has admitted to friends that she expects to be married to "Arturo" as many of his friends affectionately call him.

The affection between the couple seems to have been mutual from the first. Col. H. H. Rogers, of New York, Standard Oil multi-

PASTOR OF COOLIDGE'S CHURCH DEFENDANT IN $50,000 SUIT

Minister Accused Of Libel By U. S. Shipping Board
Engineer—Said To Have Man Of Immoral Conduct

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church, where the President and Mrs. Coolidge attend, was defendant today in a libel suit for $50,000, brought by Howard T. Cole, an engineer employed by the U. S. Shipping Board.

The basis of the suit is a letter which Dr. Pierce wrote to Gen. A. C. Dalton, president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, demanding Cole's discharge from government service because of his alleged attentions to an unnamed young woman, one of Dr. Pierce's flock. Serious charges against Cole were made in the communication. It set forth that Cole had "seduced" the young woman, and that "she had made two serious attempts to end her life by poison, and the idea of shooting both him and herself had been and is in her mind."

"As a minister," Dr. Pierce wrote, "I am interested to purify the city. It can't be done by driving out one man. But one man, unmarried, with an automobile and money and with the habit of gratifying desire at the expense of women can do much moral and physical harm."

A sweeping denial of all Dr. Pierce's charges are made by Cole in a brief accompanying the suit. He asserted he had always been "a moral and law-abiding man" and charged that the purpose of the minister was to "humiliate and mortify" him.

"We wanted to avoid publicity," said Dr. Pierce today, "but I am not worrying."

her life by poison, and the idea of shooting both him and herself had been and is in her mind."

ON BOARD U. S. S. SEATTLE, AT SEA, May 17.—(By radio to N. S.)—A mighty enemy fleet was concentrated for battle off the New England coast today screened by swift moving scout craft.

The fleet spread out over an area of 200 square miles and was seeking an opening to land a "hostile" force of 75,000 troops at some unguarded coastal point.

If the "attack" is successful the "enemy" will have a base from which to move either on New York or the rich industrial sections of New England.

The "enemy," which is engaged in spring tactical maneuvers with the army, which has been assigned to defend the coast.

Never before in peace time has such an armada assembled off the American shore. As the "zero hour" approaches the fleet is simulating actual war conditions.

The main body of the fleet consists of the big battleships and the training vessels on which are quartered the theoretical invading armies.

Every man is at his station waiting for the order to "attack" to be given by Admiral Charles F. Hughes, commander in chief. He is directing the maneuvers from the flagship, Seattle.

Since one minute after midnight today the "enemy" has been cut off from the outside world. During the night it moved with lights dimmed. The radio was silenced for fear it might reveal the location of the fleet to the defenders.

The "attack" is expected to be made by Friday.

Evans Woolen, Democratic nominee for senator from Indiana, last fall, and mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination at the next convention, will be at the speaker's table. Other scheduled to speak were:

NATION GIVES OVER

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The nation which gave twelve million dollars for relief of Japanese earthquake sufferers equalled that contribution today for the relief of flood sufferers in the Mississippi valley.

Red Cross announced today that $12,135,133 has been collected in the flood relief drive.

WILE SAYS:

Belgian Tariff
Calles' Train
Davis Again
Washington Notes

By FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE
Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright 1927

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Former Senator Porter J. McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota, is enacting an unusual role before the United States tariff commission. As counsel for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., he is opposing a reduction of the glass tariff which McCumber, himself, helped to write into the present law partially bearing his own name.

Since he became a lame duck in 1923, McCumber, like many one-time denizens of Capitol Hill, has practiced law in Washington. American importers of plate glass are the petitioners for a cut in the tariff, which is now in the neighborhood of 15 cents a square foot. Belgium is the United States' chief competitor in plate glass and sells large quantities here, despite the high duty. Lucien De Bay, the principal Belgian glass manufacturer, is appearing before the tariff commission as the spokesman of his country. He was astonished and gratified, when he lost his way in a maze of questions fired at him in English, to find that Alfred P. Dennis, vice chairman of the commission, was able to come to the Belgian's relief in classical French. Henry Ford who makes his own windshields, is one of America's leading producers of plate glass, but is not represented at the tariff commission hearings.

Calles Has Regal Train
President Calles, of Mexico, has just accepted delivery of a magnificent train of five steel cars, built to his order by the Pullman company at its works near Chicago. It is described as the most "regal" outfit on wheels ever produced.

The train consists of a private presidential car, a combination dining and smoking car, a staff car, an escort car and a car constructed exclusively to carry four high-powered touring automobiles. Mexican in tone and design, the interior decorations and furnishings of the "Calles Special" are said to be the most luxurious the Pullman Company has yet to its credit. As far as possible, the decorative scheme follows the lines with which Sen. Calles is familiar in the presidential palace at Mexico City. Tapestries, carpets, curtains and drapes were specially woven from patterns and in colors representing Mexican art from Aztec days to the present time. All hardware is gold-plated and silver finish is standard elsewhere in the train. The cars' external color is Mexican green.

Davis Proposed Again
One of the novelties of the political season, which is always open at Washington, is the projection of John W. Davis' name into the list of 1928 Democratic presidential possibilities. The suggestion emanates from a western Democrat, who himself is flirting coyly with Lady Chance.

He says that the New York West Virginian didn't have a real run for his money in 1924 because of the LaFollette third party movement. With a clear field against Coolidge—or any other Republican—next year, this Mississippi valley optimist thinks that Davis would make a vastly better showing. Confidence on this score, the patentee of the idea contends, would become conviction on his part. Davis could forget his Wall Street background long enough to espouse an honest-to-goodness farm relief program.

FOR THIRD OFFENSE
COLUMBUS, O., May 17.—Henry Petrella, 36, of the Dayton Soldiers Home, was in jail here this morning charged with illegal possession of liquor, third offense.

JUDGE DENIES PLEA TO DISMISS ACTION

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., May 17.—The state of Michigan today voided the first preliminary legal battle in its suit to dissolve the House of David, a religious colony, as a fraud, a public nuisance and an immoral institution.

The state scored when Judge Louis H. Feed of Newberry refused to grant the House of David's plea to dismiss the suit on eight different grounds.

POLISH PRESIDENT WAS PLOT TARGET

LONDON, May 17.—A sensational plot against President Pilsudski was unearthed when premises of the national Democratic organization of Poland was raided by the police, according to a Warsaw dispatch states that the plot was headed by General Haller. It alleges that laboratories for the manufacture of bombs were discovered and numerous arrests have been made with other arrests expected.

GUERRILLA ATTACK REPULSED; NATION IS BEING DISARMED

Americans Not Alarmed
By Attack Or Sacaca
Propaganda

MANAGUA, May 17.—The attack on United States marines at El Centro, resulting in the death of Captain Richard Buchanan and the wounding of two enlisted men, does not indicate any general movement on the part of the rebels to continue guerrilla warfare against the Americans, according to the best opinion here.

The major portion of the Liberals have already surrendered their arms to the American marines at Thipatapa.

Two million cartridges, three thousand guns and forty machine guns already have been surrendered.

Statements issued by Dr. Sacaca, liberal leader at Puerto Cabezas, declaring that his soldiers will fight until death and bitterly criticizing the Stimson peace plan, are regarded here as being statements issued largely for home consumption. Dr. Sacaca's followers in the field have surrendered generally.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—A dispatch to the navy today from Rear Admiral Julian L. Latimer confirmed the killing of two U. S. marines and the wounding of two others in a clash with Nicaraguan guerrillas at La Paz Centro.

The dead are Capt. Richard Buchanan, of Washington, and Private Martin Jackson, next of kin, Mrs. G. W. Everett, 230 N. Jefferson St., Chicago; the wounded, Private Wm. F. Simon and Corp. A. J. Rausch.

Two hundred guerrillas attacked the marine encampment, the dispatch said, and a dozen of the attackers were killed when the marines returned the fire.

Capt. Buchanan joined the marines in 1917, after graduating from the University of Illinois. His mother, Mrs. G. B. Buchanan, lives near Plainfield, N. J. A wife and three children survive in Washington.

BRICK MANTEL TORN OUT BY DETECTIVES WORKING ON MURDER

Number Of Suspects
Taken In Custody In
Death Probe

CLEVELAND, May 17.—A brick mantelpiece in the east end apartment where Elizabeth Reagan was stabbed to death here Saturday night, was to be torn out today by police in an attempt to find the weapon used by the murderer of the pretty young divorcee.

Detectives, working overtime on the case, which climaxed a series of unsolved murders of women here in the recent past, were questioning several men, being held for investigation, while chemists were analyzing the supposed blood stains found on the clothing of a suspect who lived in the neighborhood of the girl's room.

The latest clue which is considered the most valuable so far, according to police, developed when the identity of a man who Saturday afternoon sent a mysterious telephone message to the restaurant where the girl was employed as a waitress.

The theory advanced by the police is that the crime was committed by a jealous lover, whose affection was not returned by the young woman and who finally flew into a rage over her indifference.

Among the men being held were the following: a former manager of a restaurant where the victim once worked; a Spaniard, who once kept company with a one-time room-mate of the slain woman; a member of the National Guard who was once a suitor of the girl and the neighbor in whose room detectives say they found several articles of clothing bearing what was believed to be bloodstains.

When questioned this man claimed he was subject to nose-bleed but it was decided to hold him until the stains are analyzed.

WOLFORD MADE CHIEF, DUNKLE CLERK OF ELECTION BOARD

J. N. Wolford, Republican, newspaper publisher, Yellow Springs, was elected chief, and R. E. Dunkle, Democrat, Xenia grocer, was made clerk of the Greene County board of elections at a meeting of the board in its room in the Court House, Tuesday afternoon.

Election of chief and clerk were unanimous, both receiving the vote of all four members.

The board deadlocked over the election of a clerk at a meeting last Saturday night, and adjourned when it found itself unable to agree. Democratic members reached an agreement on the name of R. E. Dunkle, a compromise candidate, but the Republican members were unable to agree.

In the belief that time for organization had passed the temporary clerk, J. N. Wolford, was authorized to communicate with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, regarding what action to take. Later it was learned that the board still has time to organize, since the fifteen days, allowed after appointment of both new members of the board had not expired. Another meeting was called and the organization proceedings started all over again.

STOUT COMPANY IS GIVEN CONTRACT FOR COUNTY COAL

Submitting the lowest and what was considered the best bid of four received, the Stout Coal Co. was awarded the contract by County Commissioners Monday for supplying coal for use at the County Infirmary, Court House heating plant and County Jail.

The successful bidder submitted an estimate of $4.75 a ton for 309 tons of Thacker lump for the infirmary; $4.50 per ton for 150 tons of Thacker lump for the heating plant; and $5.75 per ton for fifty tons of Pocahontas mine run for the jail.

Others bidding on the contract were the Xenia Coal Co., Ledbetter Coal Co. and Stiles Coal Co. All bidders were required to give analysis of the coal.

At the specified rate per ton, it will cost $1,425 to supply the infirmary with coal, $675 for the heating plant at the Court House and $287.50 for the jail.

Spring Tints

(Copyright 1927)

Gaily colored frocks this Spring! Underthings in soft shades to match. Tint them in ordinary water—but with true dyes. Dipping will do it—in ordinary cold water—but you must have real dye to get a smooth, perfectly even tone.

Diamond dye powder is fifteen cents at any drug store; so why do half a job with something not half so effective? And when you want the tint to be permanent, just dip in boiling water instead of cold!

The druggist has color cards and simple directions for doing perfect dyeing of all sorts of material; silk or wool; linen, cotton goods; mixed goods, or any goods at all; and exquisite tinting of dainty things. Or send for a marvelous book of suggestions in full color. Ask for Color Craft! Address DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N31, Burlington, Vermont.

LONDON BUS LINE ADDS EQUIPMENT

Two new buses have been placed in operation on the line between Xenia and London.

The buses are of the latest style and have a capacity of seventeen passengers with a large baggage department at the rear.

Purchased two years ago, the bus route is controlled by the D. and C. Co. The new buses would have been placed in use several months ago if it were not for the fact road construction work is in progress between the two terminals.

Within the next month, this remodeling work will be completed permitting the buses to travel the entire distance over paved roads. Besides Xenia and London, the line serves Selma, South Charleston and Wilberforce.

Present rates and schedule will remain the same, but the schedule of the Columbus-London line will be altered to permit direct connections in London for Columbus or Xenia. Should the application of The Dayton and Xenia Motor Bus Co. to change its time schedule, effective May 29, be approved by the utilities commission, direct connection between Xenia and Dayton and indirectly between Columbus and Dayton, will be established.

CITY AUDITOR BUYS LINKHART PROPERTY

The residence property of Mrs. Clara G. Reutlinger, 132 W. Market St., has been sold to City Auditor T. H. Zell, it became known Tuesday.

The property, formerly the Linkhart homestead, adjoins the residence of Mr. Zell on the west, and has not been occupied since it was vacated last winter by former Deputy Sheriff John Baughn and his family. It is understood that Mr. Zell will remodel the house for renting purposes. The consideration was not made known.

BIBLE THOUGHT

OUR TESTIMONY:—I have preached righteousness in the great congregation: lo, I have not refrained my lips, O Lord, thou knowest. Psalm 40:9.

NEW ERA IN FLYING

The normal means of travel between New York and Calcutta, India, will soon be by the air route over the polar regions, according to Commander J. M. Kenworthy, Vice President of the British Air League.

Commander Kenworthy who is a well known authority on aeronautics and also prominent in the British House of Commons, argues that England and America are now wasting their money on lighter-than-airships, or dirigibles, and as soon as these funds are diverted to the production of greater airplanes remarkable strides will be made in air transportation.

The dirigibles, according to Commander Kenworthy, correspond to the sailing ship in the era when steam at sea had already proved its reliability. "If the lighter-than-air ship is caught in a storm she cannot land unless she is near either a mooring mast or her great basic shed," he explains. "The airplane is not so circumscribed. In case of bad weather she can land in any suitable field. The dirigible balloon needs a small army of men to assist in housing her and again in getting her out of her shed. The airplane needs no external assistance either for landing on the ground or flying from it."

Commander Kenworthy further declares that in case England should become involved in war with France that in the first week without a rifle being fired by a soldier London could be devastated and rendered uninhabitable on land or a cannon being discharged at sea by a man-of-war on either side.

"France," according to the British Air Chief, "has developed the greatest military air force in the world."

The American Air Service, he says, in spite of the efficiency and gallantry of the few American military airmen, is a long way down the line. If I were an American, I would advocate not only a greater proportion of the money spent on preparedness going to military aviation, but every possible encouragement being given to commercial flying. For a nation with a great commercial flying service has a valuable basis on which to build a great military service and also a reserve of flying men, flying material, and flying experience for war emergency.

ONE DISASTER BRINGS ANOTHER

The worst result of floods, earthquakes, fires, etc., is the danger of disease. Modern sanitary equipment is destroyed by these great upsets of nature, and when people are driven from their homes and forced into crowded camps, the barriers that modern science has been able to erect against the spread of disease are at once swept away.

The people who contributed to the last roll-call of the American Red Cross can feel satisfaction now, that their dollars are being applied in an efficient, competent, and scientific way, to fight disease perils in that calamity swept area covered by the raging Mississippi valley flood.

MUCH TO LEARN YET

The Smithsonian Institution is now engaged in trying to trace the origin of the American Indian. It has a hunch that this country was first settled by immigrants who came by the Bering Straits and it wants to find out if this hunch is right.

It's an interesting problem. The unknown history of the red men on this continent would make an absorbing tale if it could be brought out. There are mysteries enough in it, we suspect, to keep the institution's investigators busy for a long time. Here's hoping they can unravel a few of them.

ALL FIXED NOW

President Coolidge, it is announced, has installed an "air purifier" on his White House desk. By means of some chemical or other this device is said to keep the air fresh and unsullied.

It is an innovation that should have been made many years ago. No person in the United States gets quite as much gas loosed at him as the President. What with visiting congressmen, political leaders from "back home," cranks and delegations of the "gimme" boys, the air in the presidential office must need renovating very frequently.

JOHNSON FILES DUGAN APPEAL WITH OHIO SUPREME COURT

Raising the question of whether a mayor's court has jurisdiction to try a person accused of violating state prohibition laws, instead of a municipal ordinance, Attorney F. L. Johnson filed an appeal with the state supreme court Monday in the case of Michael J. Dugan, who was convicted of a liquor charge and fined $1,000 and costs by Mayor John W. Prugh.

Attorney Johnson asks the supreme court to reverse the action of the Greene County Appellate Court which affirmed the decree of the Xenia mayor's court, which found Dugan guilty of unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor.

In filing Dugan's appeal, the Xenia attorney reiterated his claim that the mayor's court overruled an objection, made before any testimony was taken, raising the question of the mayor's jurisdiction.

The court of appeals, in affirming Dugan's conviction, maintained

Lang was convicted in Dayton of a charge of violating the state

TALK AND DEEDS

In the days when George M. Cohan was writing plays with both hands, late one afternoon, he dashed into one of the old-fashioned third studios which then flourished in our great cities. Being an industrious chap, Cohan, after making his few simple purchases, was about to hurry back to his workshop and resume toiling over a play. But a friend of his, a newspaper man, laid a detaining hand on his shoulder.

"George," began the friend, "I've got a corking idea for a play. Let me just give you a brief outline of the plot."

Cohan agreed that the idea had great possibilities.

"Why don't you write it?" he asked.

"Oh, that's what I intend to do," replied the friend. "And I've got another idea also that I'm going to write some time. It's—"

"Well," said the successful playwright, with a glance at the drink, "You're certainly come to the right place to write it."

And he hastened back to his job. I presume there's a point to the story—something to the general effect that talking about what you are going to do isn't exactly the same as doing it.

It is said that when Homer wrote poetry, there was another poet in the neighborhood far more talented. Everybody agreed that if he would only take time to write down some of his stuff he could make a reputation for himself. But he dilly-dallied and just talked about the poems he was going to write without ever getting at the job. Homer got all the credit for being the best poet in those parts—because he wrote his.

I suppose every town has at least one fellow who would be a great hit if he would just do the thing he is always talking about.

How to Achieve Beauty

NECK EXERCISE FOR SYMMETRY AND RELAXATION

Today I am going to tell you of a few exercises that will help make the proportions of your neck symmetrical, whether it is too thin and needs building up or whether it is too fleshy and needs toning down.

First, we will consider the thin neck which needs developing and building up, and I will tell you of a few exercises and treatments that I am sure will prove beneficial if properly and consistently followed.

To fully develop the muscles of the neck, several exercises are necessary. One that I have found particularly beneficial is as follows:

Lie flat on your back on a couch with your head hanging over. Raise your head upward and over until your chin touches your chest, repeat six or eight times. This helps develop the muscles along the front of the neck. Then reverse your position so that you are lying face downward. Raise your head backward and upward as far as you can. In this way the muscles at the back of the neck are developed. Then stand up and twist the head from side to side to develop the muscles at the side of the neck.

Shoulders that are too thin and in which the bones are conspicuous can be improved considerably by exercising the arms, for the muscles that move the upper arms are in the shoulder. Stand erect, chest forward, arms stretched out in front of you, with hands clenched and palms up. Keeping the arms close to the sides, bend elbows and draw arms backwards as far as possible. Raise arms over head, then bend elbows, bringing the arms down close to the sides.

The Jamestown Opera House was crowded to hear the Gold Medal oratorical contest and the Silver Medal Male Quartet contest, given under the auspices of the Greene County W. C. T. U.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

Mrs. Jones: "I had a letter from my sister today, she included this recipe, as she knew all our family were so very fond of cheese dishes."

Mrs. Brown: "We are, too. May I see it?"

CHEESE DELIGHT

Two tablespoons butter, two cups milk, one cup chopped celery, two tablespoons flour, one cup cream cheese, one-half cup stuffed olives, salt and pepper.

Method: Make a cream sauce by melting two tablespoons butter, add to it two tablespoons flour, brown and add two cups milk.

Cook until like gravy, then add cheese cut in small pieces. Stir until melted, add salt, pepper, celery cut fine and sliced stuffed olives. Serve hot on crackers.

SIGNIFICANT SAYINGS
OF THE DAY

"Best laws are not made by legislators. It is the general will and judgment of the community that decides."—James G. Johnson, Ohio jurist.

"The sporting and emotional side of politics probably make as strong an appeal as ever, but is there not a palpable decline in the deeper political consciousness of the people and in their interest in political thought and thinking?"—Governor Ritchie, Maryland.

"Japan is ahead of America in shooting China's market. Japan is playing the game carefully, trying to keep China's friendship and Great Britain's as well. America will not forge ahead of Russia and Japan until she recognizes that her industries are on foreign soil and are subject to the same restrictions that American industries are in Germany or Great Britain. We wouldn't dare send gunboats up the Rhine. It would be an act of war."—Dr. H. G. Robson.

"Doors of opportunity will be opened for the youth of today, and if they have obedient feet they may enter it. Before them shall be spread the golden harvest fields of success and they may gather in abundantly—if they have hands of wisdom. They shall see (if they have eyes of confidence and faith) the rising of tomorrow's sun."—Udine Utley.

"Like all other countries America has entered a period of transition, but who can see beyond a very limited horizon? We, the elders of this generation, however, are responsible for the generation that must take our places. We must leave to our young people what we have had from the past. They are not the makers of the future—we are, by the qualities that we hand on."—Cardinal Hayes.

"In the past decade there have been two gigantic attacks upon democracy both in Europe and in America. I refer to militarism on the one hand, bolshevism on the other. Both of these in the last analysis represent an organized and deliberate blow at democracy."—Bishop A. W. Leonard.

INTESTINAL INDIGESTION

Constant Reader: I am suffering with intestinal catarrh, which clogs the bile duct, thus causing fermentation of food in the intestinal tract, auto-intoxication and malnutrition. How could I cure it?

I am not inclined to believe that your reasoning is correct, as I am a physician in your letter, for intestinal catarrh would not be apt to obstruct the bile duct, and even if it did shut off the flow of bile into the intestine, it would not necessarily produce the other symptoms you have mentioned. Intestinal indigestion means, of course, that for some reason or other the food stuffs which are normally digested in the small intestine by the pancreatic juice, that is to say, the starches and fats, are not so digested.

Perhaps there is insufficiency in quality or quantity of the pancreatic juice, and perhaps there may also be some defect as to the quantity or quality of the bile, and while we do not know with exactitude the function of the bile in the operation of digestion, we have good reason to believe it aids in breaking up the fats which are taken in as foods.

The pancreatic juice is alkaline in its reaction, and it neutralizes the acid contents of the stomach, which have been projected from the stomach into the intestine after the proteid or albuminous portion of the food which has been eaten has been digested by the gastric juice.

The pancreatic juice also emulsifies fats, and when it is deficient in quantity or quality there will be an excess of fats as a result, putrefaction of the digested proteid material, fermentation of the starches and fats and accumulation of fluids, gases and bacteria in the intestines; in other words, intestinal indigestion.

The consequence of this may be painful distension of the bowels with gas and intestinal catarrh, as mentioned in your letter, with offensive watery evacuations, or the watery elements may be absorbed in the large bowel, the remaining contents become hard and very troublesome constipation follows.

The abundant supply of bacteria in the intestine will produce decomposition and cause the development of various poisons, which may be absorbed to a greater or less degree. Indican and indicanuria are among the results of this form of indigestion.

Of course careful regulation of the diet will be required and flushing of the digestive tract from one end to the other to give it, if possible, a completely new start.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. B.: 1. Can people with high blood pressure bathe in the salt water with safety? 2. Am 50, my lips are bluish in color all the time, but especially at the time of my monthly illness, and am also weak and have a constant pain in the region of my heart. 3. My blood seems to be very poor; would you suggest a good tonic?

Answer—1. Salt water bathing is not usually advisable when the blood pressure is high, particularly if the heart is in bad condition, as yours would seem to me. The reaction in such cases is usually too violent, warm baths are preferable. 2. You should have your heart examined by one who is familiar with heart diseases. Do not put it off. 3. The combination of iron, quinine and strychnia is usually helpful in cases like yours.

Ask Dr. Currier that medical question that has been puzzling you. Confine your letter to fifty words and send stamped, addressed envelope for reply. He cannot, of course, make individual diagnosis, and he reserves the right to decide as to the propriety of queries.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Rovin' Ritzies

By Flo Frederick

Patsy Sets a Lunch
On the sill for birds to munch. "Why not set a window sill lunch counter for birds?" thought Patsy, the artist member of the Ritzie club. "Spring is almost here and the birds are looking about for places to build their nests. Maybe they will build in our trees if they find a lunch counter so close at hand."

Once a Ritzie gets an idea, there is not much time lost in carrying it out.

Patsy chose a window on the quiet side of the house for her lunch counter (their house being on a corner lot, the one side was much noisier than the other).

It was lucky that there was a lilac bush close to the window and vines crawling up the side of it because a shady sheltered window is better accepted by the birds.

She made a trip to the alley where a little evergreen tree stood on guard and broke off several of the small branches. When she was ready to fasten the branches to the window sill, Marty, her brother and fellow Ritzie, offered his services.

He fastened them securely to the window frame in a position

she did not make the mistake of setting out the wrong things.

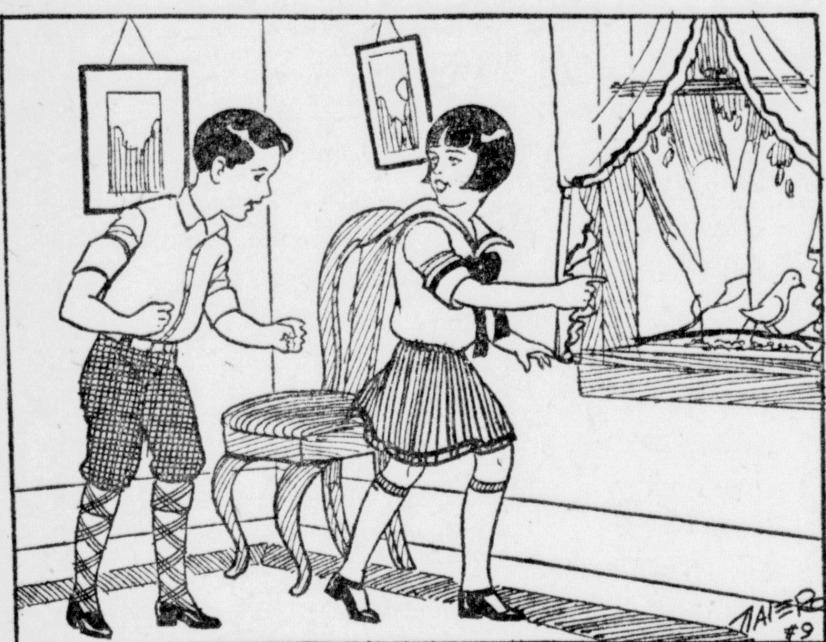

She found some canary seed in the house and this with several bread crumbs, a piece of doughnut and a bit of apple was the first lunch counter meal that she served.

An old cup served as a water dish. The first two or three days slipped by without any customers at the lunch counter, but Patsy was not worried, because she knew that birds were timid about a new place, so she changed the water every day and put out fresh seed and scraps.

One morning as she was eating her dish of cornflakes, she happened to glance up at the window. She could hardly believe her eyes! There was a robin redbreast, contentedly pecking at a bread crust.

"Oh, Marty, Marty, come quick!" she called. Her brother came running to see what it was all about and was just as delighted as his sister to see the morning visitor.

From that day on, the lunch counter was very popular. The robin must have told all the birds in the neighborhood about the lovely lunch that was set for them because it suddenly became very near the sill so that the birds could sit upon them while eating from the window sill lunch counter.

With the lunch counter nicely arranged on the outside, Patsy turned her attention to the inside of the window. Of course there should be something green on this side as well as on the outside of the window and Patsy was very glad when her mother told her she could place several potted ferns in the window. They wouldn't need much sunlight and so the shade couldn't hurt them.

There was already a net curtain on the window so that worked in fine, for you see Patsy was arranging it so that the birds couldn't see inside and become frightened at the people moving about the house.

Now that the lunch counter was ready, the next thing was to set the lunch that would attract the birds to her window. Patsy had learned from her bird book the kind of things that birds like, so

Patsy is sure that when the girls and boys hear about her window sill lunch counter for birds that they will want to build them too, so here are her suggestions for food that will attract the birds. If you live in the country, give them small grains like oats and wheat. If you live in the city and need to buy seed, hemp, millet, canary and sunflower seed are best. Suet, scraps of meat, celery, lettuce, apple and raisins are appreciated.

Patsy says you will find it great fun to make friends with the birds over the lunch counter and that after a short time they become quite tame.

CHILDREN'S SAVING CARDS FEATURE OF CHAUTAUQUA PLANS

Designed to stimulate interest in Junior Town, which will be a children's feature of the Redpath Chautauqua in Xenia this year, 365 Chautauqua savings cards have been distributed among school children here.

The cards contain fifteen spaces which are to be filled in with dimes and nickels. There are ten spaces for dimes and five for nickels. The card, when filled by the child, will contain $1.25, the price of a season's Chautauqua ticket for children from 6 to 14 years of age.

As each space is filled, the enclosed cover should be attached as indicated by numbers on the diagram and stickers. When completely filled, the sticker will read: "Now I Can Enjoy Chautauqua."

The cards should then be turned in to the Rev. W. H. Tilford, who will give the children credit for juvenile tickets until the regular supply of Chautauqua tickets arrive. The tickets will then be mailed to the children who have complied with the savings method. Chautauqua officials are endeavoring to arouse enthusiasm in Junior Town this year and the savings cards have been successful in various other communities where the plan has been used as an experiment. Daily stories and games are regular features of the hours in the morning devoted to children.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED:

Both Anne Tracy and Mr. Jones, who is the Tracy's milkman, object to the engagement of Phillip Wynne Tracy IV and Natalie Jones.

Phillip's mother plans to give a party hoping to interest her son in some other girl. She tells him about her friend, Lura Hilliard, an impending visit and unconsciously interests him in the woman.

Without his mother's knowledge Phil plans to bring Natalie to the party through his friend, Rodney Maxwell.

Meantime Phillip meets Mrs. Hilliard at the train and takes her to luncheon. Shortly after he finds he has fallen in love at first sight and hopes Natalie will decide not to come to the party after all.

After their first kiss on a midnight ride, Phillip only lives when he is near Lura Hilliard and they make arrangements to go riding together again that night after the party, to which Natalie surprises every one by coming.

The young girls at the party are jealous and criticize Mrs. Hilliard for dressing too young.

Natalie overhears Phillip giving Mrs. Hilliard permission to call him Wynne. She breaks her engagement to him and refuses to be even friends.

Here the story further unfolds—

CHAPTER XVII

RODNEY MAXWELL CONSOLES NATALIE

"BUT you can't go now, Natalie—Mother will be suspicious."

"Must you always be thinking of yourself, Phil, and expecting me to help you out of every scrape? Well, this is one time I am not going to do it. You must not for one moment think I am going to make it easy for you."

"Take me to Rod. I'll tell your mother that I have a sudden pain that is agonizing."

Suddenly Phillip took Natalie to Rodney, all the while feigning as though he were accompanying some dead woman to the cemetery gates.

"Rod, will you take me home? I'm sick of all this. Oh, Rod—Rod—get me out of this as quick as you can."

"Of course I'll take you out of it, dear. There's Mrs. Tracy coming toward us now. We will make our excuses and make a run for it."

Natalie looked at him gratefully even while he blunderingly said: "Dear Mrs. Tracy, I think you will have to excuse Natalie and me—you see Nat has not been used at her father's frugal table to eat so much rich food."

"Mr. Jones would consider it wicked with so many people in the city starving."

"Your wonderful dinner has done something to Natalie's little insides and her tummy has protested."

Mrs. Tracy was quite solicitous—she said she hoped Natalie's pain was not serious.

"I'd like to tell that blind woman how serious it is," thought Natalie, but she contented herself with a faint smile until she got into the taxi which would take her to Aunt Julia's and, then, although she told herself that her heart was broken beyond repair, she laughed.

Rod, rather mystified, joined in even before he asked, "What are you so tickled about, Nat? I thought I did that pretty well."

"You did, dear Rod—you did—your reference to my father's table and coupling it with my little insides was a stroke of genius."

"Of course you do not realize that you also told Mrs. Tracy that my father hardly gives his family enough to eat and that she ought to be ashamed of herself for giving us such gorgeous eats when there were people starving in the city."

At this Rod looked greatly abashed, but seeing a ghost of a smile on Natalie's lips he in turn smiled and said, "Now tell me what it was all about."

"Rod—I am not going to call Phillip Wynne Tracy IV Wynne any more."

"Great grief, Nat, what's the matter?"

"Well, I heard him tell Mrs. Hilliard that she should call him Wynne so I told him that while two—meaning you and myself—might be company, there was always a crowd."

"Oh, Rod, I am so unhappy—poor Wynne is sunk and all because that woman must feed her wicked vanity—why can't she take some one of her own age?—I hope if when I am over thirty I let a boy under twenty make love to me that some one will take me out and shoot me."

"Rod, what do you suppose his mother will do when she finds it out and he goes to smash? Why do you know he told me tonight that he couldn't help loving her and he said it was just plain 'hell'—yes, he told that to me—those were his very words and just a few weeks ago he said he wanted to marry me. Rod, what are we going to do—what are we going to do?" she repeated almost incoherently.

"Well, I don't know, Natalie, what you are going to do, for no man can tell what a girl will do under any circumstances, but I know what I am going to do. I'm going to change the entire map of Phillip Wynne Tracy IV's fate. He may not be old enough for that interesting lady who has her claws on him but he will have enough seams and scars on that handsome mug of his when I get through with him to make him look old enough to be that hankering female's father.

"Yes, dear, you can be friends with Wynne because I ask it."

"I'll knock him into the middle of next week and keep him there until this week has time to catch up with him. I'll—"

"Rod—"

Natalie laid her hands on Rodney Maxwell's arm. He looked down into her face which was now divided between smiles and tears.

"Rod," she repeated, "I have never known you to get so excited."

"There's a lot of things you don't know about me, Nat, but if the knowledge that I love you, dear, will be of any comfort to you at this time I want you to have it."

Natalie nestled a little closer to him.

"I know I am not handsome like Wynne and I know I am rather dumb, but that hasn't kept me from picking out the loveliest and best I know in the world to love—"

"No—don't stop me—I'm wound up now and I must get all this off my chest before I run down."

"I will not bother you again, dear, with my foolish dreams. I know I never had a chance beside Wynne—damn him—but I want you to know that that has never made any difference to me. I would rather love you knowing that I could never have you than be the white-haired boy of a Helen of Troy or a Lillian Russell."

He had been talking fast for he knew that he must make the lovely golden head which had now come to rest just above his heart raise itself in gallant courage again.

"Natalie must not feel herself deserted," he said to himself. "I'll make that plaster saint come back to her on his knees and ask her for forgiveness and beg for mercy or I'll make him into something that even his mother will shrink from."

His words did accomplish what he wanted them to for the first time in his life he told himself, for presently he looked into eyes that had lost their misty sadness and had become cold steel again.

"ROD, you have always been my knight of the—"

"One track mind," he supplied, "but that track runs straight to you. 'Natalie, I promise you, if it will make you any happier, that you shall receive back that piece of damaged goods very soon. I shall see that you have Phillip Wynne Tracy IV tomorrow or whenever you want him or he need never speak to me again.'"

"You mustn't think of it, Rod—he will be unhappy enough without losing his friend. Promise me, dear, that you will stick by him whatever he does."

"I can't do that for we have only been sweethearts, but you must do it even if you are disgusted and dis-

Home Treatment For Gall Stones Highly Praised

Reports From Many Grateful Users Say It Saved Them an Operation. Pleasant and Inexpensive to Use.

For over a year now, many drug stores throughout the middle west have been recommending an inexpensive tablet called for the successful home treatment of gall stones, gall bladder trouble and hepatic torpidity.

According to written reports the simple home use of "Klax-Ko" tablets has produced wonderfully beneficial results in hundreds of cases. Men and women of all ages, but particularly those in middle life seem to be especially benefited.

One man says—"I suffered greatly from gall stones and liver trouble. Doctor said I must have an operation. The night before I was scheduled for the hospital a friend insisted I try 'Klax-Ko' tablets first. I commenced to feel better and in a few days was out of the house and back to work and I haven't ever had an attack since."

If you are bothered by dizzy spells, headaches, shortness of breath, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness and restless night, you should give "Klax-Ko" tablets a trial at once, and you are invited to do so without slightest risk of cost unless fully pleased with results. Ask Sayre's Drug Store or any good druggist for Klax-Ko today. —Adv.

Before he could speak, however, she had opened the door of the taxi and was speeding up to the door of the apartment house where her Aunt Julia lived.

Rodney Maxwell cursed himself for his loginess for when he had reached the doorway she was just about to enter the elevator. "Good night, Rod," she called. "I'll see you very soon."

The young people at Mrs. Tracy's party with the exception of Rod and Natalie stayed until the last dance was played.

Phillip thought they would never go home and his mother, who noticed his bored face, was sure it was because Natalie had left so early.

"See if you can make him tell you if he has had a quarrel with that little Jones girl," she said to Mrs. Hilliard. By his looks and actions he is telling every one now that he wishes the whole thing were over."

"Wynne, dear, you must buck up," was what Lura told him the next time he dined with her. "Your mother and I are afraid that others of your guests have noticed how bored you look. Your mother, of course, thinks it is because Miss Jones has left, if that were the case, dear, I would not blame you, for you must know that she is unusually beautiful."

"Yes, Nat's lovely all right," answered Phil listlessly, "but she has no personality—she may get it in time—oh, dearest, if you only knew how all these young girls of no understanding bore me. They only think of themselves and a good time—they never stop to consider the other fellow."

Lura, I am sometimes sorry that you ever came here to show me the difference between those dancing shadows and a real woman—I am wanting you, dear, and I am nearly frantic because I cannot tell all those silly boys and girls dancing around me that I want you."

"You'll come down to the car for that ride as soon as possible after we get home—won't you?"

"Yes, I'll come, Wynne."

His face lighted dangerously for his mother was watching—"You also must know Wynne, it will be a terrible risk," added Lura.

Dike Workers Labor To Save East Levee

EMERGENCY BRINGS DESPERATE EFFORT TO SAVE BARRIERS

Last Dry Parish Faces
Flood If Breaks
Occur

BATON ROUGE, La., May 17.—While flood waters released by the disintegration of the fifty-mile Bayou Des Glaisses levees swept southward through St. Landry parish today, new armies laboring under emergency orders on the east bank of the Mississippi in a desperate attempt to hold the levees at Plaquemine Point, eighteen miles south of Baton Rouge.

The waters have broken through the Plaquemine Point barriers eight times during the last three days, two breaks having been finally sealed early today after almost twenty-four hours work. The levees along more than a two mile front are so thoroughly saturated that one walking along the base sinks almost ankle deep in mud and seepage.

The tremendous volume of water now rushing over west central Louisiana from the Bayou Des Glaisses breaches had reached the southern edge of St. Landry parish today, extending the area of devastating lake south of the crumbled bulwarks to more than 700 square miles since the first bayou crevasse occurred last Thursday afternoon. Since that time virtually the entire levee has been swept into the muddy waters by the force of the flood piled against the retaining wall.

While these waters rushed southward behind the west levees of the Atchafalaya, approximately 300 square miles of semi-marshlands were flooded in Iberville and St. Martin parishes, some thirty miles south of the bay waters, by the overflow of the augmented Atchafalaya beyond the terminus of the retaining levees in that river. Approximately 150 square miles on each side of the river have been covered with one to three feet of water, by this overflow.

Further up the Atchafalaya, new foundation still was threatened today on both banks. A weak spot in the east Atchafalaya levee near Woodside is considered so threatening by relief headquarters here that a special evacuation train is standing by ready to remove 500 persons from the village within a few hours should the water logged dike cave under the still rising waters. At Melville, on the west bank of the river, fifteen miles north, the levee has been considered vulnerable for three days.

A break at either of these points would release the bayou waters into Pointe Coupee parish, the only parish within fifty miles of the Mississippi river south of the old Bayou Des Glaisses not yet under water. A threatened break at Torras, twenty miles further north, would entail virtually the same results, although from that opening the inflow would be under the tremendous pressure of the bayou lake, which has been shooting a cataract into southern Avoyelles parish in walls twenty feet high.

MANILA, P. I., May 17.—Believing Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana to be an apostle of independence, fanatic followers of Flor Intrachero, self-styled "emperor" of the Philippines, are planning to raid the provincial government of Occidental Negros. It was reported today.

Information to this effect was telegraphed to Manila by Captain De Jesus, commander of the provincial constabulary. De Jesus added, however, that adequate precautions were taken.

MORE TESTIMONY OF PAJAMA BREAKFAST PARTIES PROMISED

Japanese Servant Tells
Of Visits To Kelly's
Home

LOS ANGELES, May 17.—More testimony about pajama breakfast parties and gin fizzes in the Hollywood apartment of Paul Kelly was promised today at the film actor's trial for the murder of Ray Raymond, musical comedy star.

Kelly's Japanese valet, "Jungle," was on the stand yesterday and told of visits of Raymond's actress widow, Dorothy Mackaye, to the young screen hero's rooms. Asked how many times Miss Mackaye had visited Kelly's apartment, "Jungle" said that before she left for San Francisco for a theatrical engagement he saw her possibly two or three times a week. Upon her return to Hollywood, he continued, the actress increased her visits to an average of five times a week.

Drawn out by close questioning, the house servant furnished the information that on three nights, to his knowledge, the actress remained all night. "Jungle" who explained that he was so called because his name in Japanese means "Big Forest," also told of serving drinks to Kelly and Miss Mackaye on the afternoon preceding the first fight which, the state charges, caused Raymond's death. Max Wagner, Kelly's roommate and Miss Helen Wilkinson, a chum of Miss Mackaye, were present and the glasses were passed around half a dozen times.

As Kelly gulped down his last drink, the servant boy noticed he picked up the telephone, and, after a brief conversation which "Jungle" could not overhear, the film actor "hustled" out of the house. Kelly returned later, his face and hands covered with blood and explained he had been in a fight. The others had left in the meantime.

Both Miss Wilkinson and Wagner were subpoenaed to take the witness stand when the trial resumed today.

INFORMERS GET FREEDOM

PASTOR OF COOLIDGE'S CHURCH DEFENDANT IN $50,000 SUIT

Minister Accused Of Libel By U. S. Shipping Board Engineer—Said To Have Man Of Immoral Conduct

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational church, where the President and Mrs. Coolidge attend, was defendant today in a libel suit for $50,000, brought by Howard T. Cole, an engineer employed by the U. S. Shipping Board.

The basis of the suit is a letter which Dr. Pierce wrote to Gen. A. C. Dalton, president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, demanding Cole's discharge from government service because of his alleged attentions to an unnamed young woman, one of Dr. Pierce's flock. Serious charges against Cole were made in the communication. It set forth that Cole had "seduced" the young woman, and that "she had made two serious attempts to end her life by poison, and the idea of shooting both him and herself had been and is in her mind."

"I am interested to purify the city. It can't be done by driving out one man. But one man, unmarried, with an automobile and money and with the habit of gratifying desire at the expense of women can do much moral and physical harm."

A sweeping denial of all Dr. Pierce's charges are made by Cole in a brief accompanying the suit. He asserted he had always been "a moral and law-abiding man" and charged that the purpose of the minister was to "humiliate and mortify" him.

"We wanted to avoid publicity," said Dr. Pierce today, "but I am not worrying."

Recalled later before another grand jury at Canton, Bouklias and Turner presented testimony which was accepted as truthful and which, prosecuting officials declared, led to the conviction of Curtis.

"I have always looked upon the testimony of Bouklias and Turner as a service to the city of Canton and the state of Ohio, and am taking this into consideration in granting them pardons," declared Governor Donahue.

It was announced at the governor's office this morning that neither Bouklias nor Turner knew they were pardoned. Authorization for their release, Jacob Meckstroth, secretary of the governor, announced, will be sent to Warden P. E. Thomas, at the penitentiary immediately, and the two men will be liberated today.

Bouklias, also known as "Harry, the Greek," charged with being a bootlegger, and Turner, accused of being a gambler, both well-known in the Canton underworld, testified that graft had been collected for Curtis from proprietors of gambling houses and various other places of vice in Canton.

This testimony was submitted both to the grand jury at Canton and at an investigation conducted here by Governor Donahue. Officials at the governor's office appeared to be unable to credit the report that Bouklias and Turner, while incarcerated in the penitentiary here, furnished valuable information to Detective Ora Slater, Cincinnati, and to public officials who participated in the prosecution of persons accused of taking part in the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton, O., Daily News.

Governor Donahue's action in extending executive clemency to Bouklias and Turner followed receipt by the governor of a letter from Price Russell and Dan W. Williams, members of the state council board, who recommended commutation so that their sentences would expire May 16 (Monday).

The board, also, submitted to the governor letters addressed to Turner and to Bouklias by Common Pleas Judge Abram W. Agler, Canton, and former prosecuting attorney C. B. McClintock, Stark County, respectively, who favored liberation of the two prisoners.

Judge Agler was the state judge and McClintock prosecuting judge in the case against Bouklias and Turner as well as against Curtis.

PRESIDENT BETTER AFTER COLD ATTACK

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Partially recovered from the bronchitis attack which confined him to his bed yesterday, President Coolidge returned to his office today and resumed his duties. Except for a slight hoarseness, Mr. Coolidge appeared to suffer no ill effects from his cold.

RUMORED "ZERO HOUR" IN MOCK WARFARE WILL COME ON FRIDAY

United States Fleet Keeps Plans For Attack On New England Coast Secret—Location Of Ships Covered Up

ON BOARD, U. S. S. SEATTLE, AT SEA, May 17.—(By radio to U. S. S. A.)—A mighty enemy fleet was concentrated for battle off the New England coast today, screened by swift moving scout craft.

The fleet spread out over an area of 200 square miles and was seeking an opening to land a "hostile" force of 75,000 troops at some unguarded coastal point.

If the "attack" is successful the "enemy" will have a base from which to move either on New York or the rich industrial section of New England.

The "enemy" is the United States fleet, which is engaged in spring tactical maneuvers with the army, which has been assigned to defend the coast.

Never before in peace time has such an armada assembled off the American shore. As the "zero hour" approaches the fleet is simulating actual war conditions.

The main body of the fleet consists of the big battleships and the training vessels on which are quartered the theoretical invading armies.

The planes, which are the "eyes" of the fleet, take off from the flat top decks of the Langley to scan the roundless waters for the whiffs of the defending forces.

Every man is at his station waiting for the order to "attack" to be given by Admiral Charles F. Hughes, commander in chief. He is directing the maneuvers from the flagship, Seattle.

Since one minute after midnight today the "enemy" has been cut off from the outside world. During the night it moved with lights dimmed. The radio was silenced for fear it might reveal the location of the fleet to the defenders.

The "attack" is expected to be made by Friday.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN TO ATTEND BANQUET

CLEVELAND, May 17.—The "standing room only" sign has been hung up for the Women's Democratic Club banquet at Hotel Cleveland here tonight, according to Mrs. Bernice S. Pyke, Cuyahoga County women's leader.

Mrs. A. V. Donahue, wife of Governor Donahue, will be among those present, it was announced.

Evans Woolen, Democratic nominee for senator from Indiana, last fall, and mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination at the next convention, will be at the speaker's table. Other scheduled to speak were:

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War; George White, of Marietta, former national committeeman; W. A. Julian, national committeeman, and Henry J. Bruner, of Mansfield, state chairman.

NATION GIVES OVER TWELVE MILLION

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The nation which gave twelve million dollars for relief of Japanese earthquake sufferers equalled that contribution today for the relief of flood sufferers in the Mississippi valley.

The Red Cross announced today that $12,135,133 has been collected in the flood relief drive.

Rogers expressed some disappointment that Millicent did not choose a resident of the United States this time.

Ramos is about thirty years old, stands six feet four inches, is devoted to tennis and winter sports and is described by his friends as a "divine dancer." In fact, the Argentine is almost a prototype of Count Salm except he has a private fortune whereas the Austrian nobleman was not so fortunate.

The Argentine is very popular with the Paris smart set, in which circle he is well known, especially among the North Americans.

WIFE SAYS:

Belgian Tariff
Calles' Train
Davis Again
Washington Notes

By FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE
Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright 1927
WASHINGTON, May 17.—Former Senator Porter J. McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota, is enacting an unusual role before the United States tariff commission.

McCumber, like counsel for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., is opposing a reduction of the glass tariff which McCumber, himself, helped to write into the present law partially bearing his own name.

Since he became a lame duck in 1923, McCumber, like many one-time denizens of Capitol Hill, has practiced law in Washington. American importers of plate glass are the petitioners for a cut in the tariff, which is now in the neighborhood of 15 cents a square foot. Belgium is the United States' chief competitor in plate glass and sells large quantities here, despite the high duty.

Lucien De Bay, the principal Belgian glass manufacturer, is appearing before the tariff commission as the spokesman of his country. He was astonished and gratified when he lost his way in a maze of questions fired at him in English, to find that Alfred P. Dennis, vice chairman, of the commission was able to come to the Belgian relief in classical French.

Henry Ford who makes his own windshields, is one of America's leading producers of plate glass, but is not represented at the tariff commission hearings.

Calles Has Regal Train
President Calles, of Mexico, has just accepted delivery of a magnificent train of five steel cars, built to his order by the Pullman company at its works near Chicago, it is described as the most "regal" outfit on wheels ever produced.

The train consists of a private presidential car, a combination dining and smoking car, a staff car, an escort car and a car constructed exclusively to carry four high-powered touring automobiles. Mexican in tone and design, the interior decorations and furnishings of the "Calles Special" are said to be the most luxurious the Pullman company has yet to its credit. As far as possible, the decorative scheme follows the lines with which Senor Calles is familiar in the presidential palace at Mexico City. Tapestries, carpets, curtains and drapes were specially woven from patterns and in colors representing Mexican art from Aztec days to the present time. All hardware is gold-plated and silver finish is standard elsewhere in the train. The cars' external color is Mexican green.

Davis Proposed Again
One of the novelties of the political season, which is always open at Washington, is the projection of John W. Davis' name into the list of 1928 Democratic presidential possibilities. The suggestion emanates from a western Democrat, who himself is flirting coyly with Lady Chance.

He deposes and says that the New York West Virginian didn't have a real run for his money in 1924 because of the LaPollette third party movement. With a clear field against Coolidge—or any other Republican—next year, this Mississippi valley optimist thinks that Davis would make a vastly better showing. Confidence on this score, the patentee of the idea contends, would become conviction on his part if Davis could forget his Wall Street background long enough to espouse an honest-to-goodness farm relief program.

DE PINEDO LEAVES STATES FOR CANADA

CHICAGO, May 17.—Francesco De Pinedo, the Italian round-the-world flyer, hopped off at 6:57 this morning for Montreal. He headed straight for Detroit and will pass over Buffalo, Rochester and Kingston, but will make no stops, unless forced to do so, until he reaches Montreal.

CAN TAX FOXES

COLUMBUS, O., May 17.—Silver foxes are subject to a personal property tax, according to a ruling here of Attorney General E. C. Turner. Turner ruled that silver foxes, reared, maintained and confined are personal property of their owner and as such are subject to taxation and should be so listed. The ruling was asked by Ross County authorities, where many large silver fox farms are located.

JUDGE DENIES PLEA TO DISMISS ACTION

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., May 17.—The state of Michigan today won the first preliminary legal battle in its suit to dissolve the House of David, a religious colony, as a fraud, a public nuisance and an immoral institution.

The state secured when Judge Louis H. Peab of Newberry refused to grant the House of David's plea to dismiss the suit on eight different grounds.

POLISH PRESIDENT WAS PLOT TARGET

LONDON, May 17.—A sensational plot against President Pilsudski was unearthed when premises of the national Democratic organization of Poland was raided by the police, according to a Warsaw dispatch to the Central News. This dispatch states that the plot was headed by General Haller. It alleges that laboratories for the manufacture of bombs were discovered and numerous arrests have been made with other arrests expected.

GUERRILLA ATTACK REPULSED; NATION IS BEING DISARMED

Americans Not Alarmed
By Attack Or Sacaca
Propaganda

MANAGUA, May 17.—The attack on United States marines at El Centro, resulting in the death of Captain Richard Buchanan and the wounding of two enlisted men, does not indicate any general movement on the part of the rebels to continue guerrilla warfare against the Americans, according to the best opinion here.

The major portion of the Liberals have already surrendered their arms to the American marines at Thipatapa. Two million cartridges, three thousand guns and forty machine guns already have been surrendered.

Statements issued by Dr. Sacaca, liberal leader at Puerto Cabezas, declaring that his soldiers will fight until death and bitterly criticizing the Stimson peace plan, are regarded here as being statements issued largely for home consumption. Dr. Sacaca's followers in the field have surrendered generally.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—A dispatch to the navy today from Rear Admiral Julian L. Latimer confirmed the killing of two U. S. marines and the wounding of two others in a clash with Nicaraguan guerrillas at La Paz Centro.

The dead are Capt. Richard Buchanan, of Washington, and Private Martin Jackson, next of kin, Mrs. G. W. Everett, 229 N. Jefferson St., Chicago; the wounded, Private Wm. F. Simon and Corp. A. J. Rauch.

Two hundred guerrillas attacked the marine encampment, the dispatch said, and a dozen of the attackers were killed when the marines returned the fire.

Capt. Buchanan joined the marines in 1917, after graduating from the University of Illinois. His mother, Mrs. G. B. Buchanan, lives near Plainfield, N. J. A wife and three children survive in Washington.

BRICK MANTEL TORN OUT BY DETECTIVES WORKING ON MURDER

Number Of Suspects
Taken In Custody In
Death Probe

CLEVELAND, May 17.—A brick mantelpiece in the east end apartment where Elizabeth Reagan was stabbed to death here Saturday night, was to be torn out today by police in an attempt to find the weapon used by the murderer of the pretty young divorcee.

Detectives, working overtime on the case, which climaxed a series of unusual murders of women here in the recent past, were questioning several men, being held for investigation, while chemists were analyzing the supposed blood stains found on the clothing of a suspect who lived in the neighborhood of the girl's room.

The latest clue which is considered the most valuable so far, according to police, developed when the identity of a man who Saturday afternoon sent a mysterious telephone message to the restaurant where the girl was employed as a waitress.

The theory advanced by the police is that the crime was committed by a jealous lover, whose affection was not returned by the young woman and who finally flew into a rage over her indifference.

Among the men being held were the following: a former manager of a restaurant where the victim once worked; a Spaniard, who once kept company with a longtime roommate of the slain woman; a member of the National Guard who was once a suitor of the girl and the neighbor in whose rooms detectives say they found several articles of clothing bearing what was believed to be bloodstains.

When questioned this man claimed he was subject to nose-bleeds but it was decided to hold him until the stains are analyzed.

WOLFORD MADE CHIEF, DUNKLE CLERK OF ELECTION BOARD

J. N. Wolford, Republican, newspaper publisher, Yellow Springs, was elected chief, and R. E. Dunkle, Democrat, Xenia grocer, was made clerk of the Greene County board of elections at a meeting of the board in its room in the Court House, Tuesday afternoon.

Election of chief and clerk were unanimous, both receiving the vote of all four members.

The board deadlocked over the election of a clerk at a meeting last Saturday night, and adjourned when it found itself unable to agree. Democratic members reached an agreement on the name of R. E. Dunkle, a compromise candidate, but the Republican members were unable to agree.

In the belief that time for organization had passed the temporary clerk, J. N. Wolford, was authorized to communicate with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, regarding what action to take. Later it was learned that the board still has time to organize, since the fifteen days, allowed after appointment of both new members of the board had not expired. Another meeting was called and the organization proceedings started all over again.

STOUT COMPANY IS GIVEN CONTRACT FOR COUNTY COAL

Submitting the lowest and what was considered the best bid of four received, the Stout Coal Co. was awarded the contract by County Commissioners Monday for supplying coal for use at the County Infirmary, Court House heating plant and County Jail.

The successful bidder submitted an estimate of $1.75 a ton for 200 tons of Thacker lump for the infirmary; $4.50 per ton for 150 tons of Thacker lump for the heating plant; and $5.75 per ton for fifty tons of Pocahontas mine run for the jail.

Others bidding on the contract were the Xenia Coal Co., Ledbetter Coal Co. and Stiles Coal Co. All bidders were required to give analysis of the coal.

At the specified rate per ton, it will cost $1,425 to supply the infirmary with coal, $675 for the heating plant at the Court House and $287.50 for the jail.

Spring Tints

Gaily colored frocks this Spring! Underthings in soft shades to match. Tint them in ordinary water—but with true dyes. Dipping will do it—in ordinary cold water—but you must have real dye to get a smooth, perfectly even tone.

Diamond dye powder is fifteen cents at any drug store; so why do half a job with something not half so effective? And when you want the tint to be permanent, just dip in boiling water instead of cold!

The druggist has color cards and simple directions for doing perfect dyeing of all sorts of material; silk or wool; linen, cotton goods; mixed goods, or any goods at all; and exquisite tinting of dainty things. Or, send for a marvelous book of suggestions in full color. Ask for Color Craft! Address DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N31, Burlington, Vermont.

ORIGINAL 1¢ Rexall ONE CENT SALE

COPYRIGHT 1927 UNITED DRUG CO.

What a Rexall One Cent Sale Is

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klezno Dental Cream is 50c, you buy a tube at this price and by paying 1 cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price.

This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for 1 cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, knowing the goods will please you.

WOMAN CARRIED TO SAFETY AS FIRE DESTROYS HOME TUESDAY

A fire virtually destroyed a one-story cottage owned by William L. Hall, blacksmith, on a farm on the Wilmington Pike near the city limits early Tuesday afternoon. Cause of the blaze is undetermined.

The fire was discovered shortly after 12:30 o'clock by Mrs. Ernest Simons, a neighbor who notified members of the family. Mrs. Hall, to whom a child was born several days ago, was confined in bed in the house at the time attended by a nurse, and was carried to safety with the child. A daughter was also at the home.

The roof was ablaze when firemen arrived and the flames had gained great headway. Firemen used all chemicals available but could not place the blaze under control until more than an hour and one-half later when a hose line was laid from a plug on Washington St., 1,300 feet away. The difficulty in obtaining water handicapped their efforts.

Firemen, with the assistance of neighboring residents, managed to remove a portion of the contents of the cottage to a place of safety but the structure was virtually destroyed.

No estimate was available concerning the probable loss to the building and contents.

Mr. Hall conducts a blacksmith shop in the rear of the K. of P. Hall, S. Detroit St.

The tender bran of the oat adds extra value to this nourishing food

Often cereals lose much of their natural value through being too highly refined. Children especially need the tender bran as it is found in Quick Mother's Oats, and that is one reason child health specialists approve it so highly.

A bowl of Quick Mother's Oats and milk is rich, too, in vitamins and minerals indispensable for sound, normal growth. And a cup of each a day supplies 23% of the tissue-building protein a growing child must have. And how children love the natural whole-grain flavor!

For many years the careful millers of Quick Mother's Oats have studied ways of milling to keep this flavor—and to make a fine, even meal that cooks up always the way you like it—smooth and even!

So that mothers who realize the importance of oatmeal as a "growth food" find in this 50-year-old brand a quality they can always trust.

Two kinds—the kind you have always known or Quick (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes). Both with coupons interchangeable with Aunt Jemima coupons, for lovely linens, curtains, jewelry.

BIBLE THOUGHT

OUR TESTIMONY:—I have preached righteousness in the great congregation; lo, I have not refrained my lips, O Lord, thou knowest. Psalm 40:9.

NEW ERA IN FLYING

The normal means of travel between New York and Calcutta, India, will soon be by the air route over the polar regions, according to Commander J. M. Kenworthy, Vice President of the British Air League.

Commander Kenworthy who is a well known authority on aeronautics and also prominent in the British House of Commons, argues that England and America are now wasting their money on lighter-than-airships, or dirigibles, and as soon as these funds are diverted to the production of greater airplanes remarkable strides will be made in air transportation.

The dirigibles, according to Commander Kenworthy, correspond to the sailing ship in the era when steam at sea had already proved its reliability. "If the lighter-than-air ship is caught in a storm she cannot land unless she is near either a mooring mast or her great basic shed," he explains. "The airplane is not so circumscribed. In case of bad weather she can land in any suitable field. The dirigible balloon needs a small army of men to assist in housing her and again in getting her out of her shed. The airplane needs no external assistance either for landing on the ground or flying from it."

Commander Kenworthy further declares that in case England should become involved in war with France that in the first week without a rifle being fired by a soldier London could be devastated and rendered uninhabitable on land or a cannon being discharged at sea by a man-of-war on either side.

"France," according to the British Air Chief, "has developed the greatest military air force in the world."

The American Air Service, he says, in spite of the efficiency and gallantry of the few American military airmen, is a long way down the line. If I were an American, I would advocate not only a greater proportion of the money spent on preparedness going to military aviation, but every possible encouragement being given to commercial flying. For a nation with a great commercial flying service has a valuable basis on which to build a great military service and also a reserve of flying men, flying material, and flying experience for war emergency.

ONE DISASTER BRINGS ANOTHER

The worst result of floods, earthquakes, fires, etc., is the danger of disease. Modern sanitary equipment is destroyed by these great upsets of nature, and when people are driven from their homes and forced into crowded camps, the barriers that modern science has been able to erect against the spread of disease are at once swept away.

The people who contributed to the last roll-call of the American Red Cross can feel satisfaction now, that their dollars are being applied in an efficient, competent, and scientific way, to fight disease perils in that calamity swept area covered by the raging Mississippi valley flood.

MUCH TO LEARN YET

The Smithsonian Institution is now engaged in trying to trace the origin of the American Indian. It has a hunch that this country was first settled by immigrants who came by the Bering Straits and it wants to find out if this hunch is right.

It's an interesting problem. The unknown history of the red men on this continent would make an absorbing tale if it could be brought out. There are mysteries enough in it, we suspect, to keep the institution's investigators busy for a long time. Here's hoping they can unravel a few of them.

ALL FIXED NOW

President Coolidge, it is announced, has installed an "air purifier" on his White House desk. By means of some chemical or other this device is said to keep the air fresh and unsullied.

It is an innovation that should have been made many years ago. No person in the United States gets quite as much gas loosed at him as the President. What with visiting congressmen, political leaders from "back home," cranks and delegations of the "gimme" boys, the air in the presidential office must need renovating very frequently.

JOHNSON FILES DUGAN APPEAL WITH OHIO SUPREME COURT

Raising the question of whether a mayor's court has jurisdiction to try a person accused of violating state prohibition laws, instead of a municipal ordinance, Attorney P. L. Johnson filed an appeal with the state supreme court Monday in the case of Michael J. Dugan, who was convicted of a liquor charge and fined $1,000 and costs by Mayor John W. Prugh.

Attorney Johnson asks the supreme court to reverse the action of the Greene County Appellate Court which affirmed the decree of the Xenia mayor's court, which found Dugan guilty of unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor.

In filing Dugan's appeal, the Xenia attorney reiterated his claim that the mayor's court overrode an objection, made before any testimony was taken, raising the question of the mayor's jurisdiction.

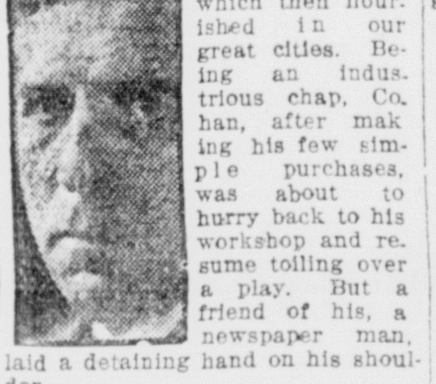

The court of appeals, in affirming Dugan's conviction, maintained

KELLYGRAMS by FRED C KELLY

TALK AND DEEDS
In the days when George M. Cohan was writing plays with both hands, late one afternoon, he dashed into one of the old-fashioned third studios which then flourished in our great cities. Being an industrious chap, Cohan, after making his few simple purchases, was about to hurry back to his workshop and resume toiling over a play. But a friend of his, a newspaper man, laid a detaining hand on his shoulder.

"George," began the friend, "I've got a corking idea for a play. Let me just give you a brief outline of the plot."
Cohan agreed that the idea had great possibilities.
"Why don't you write it?" he asked.
"Oh, that's what I intend to do," replied the friend. "And I've got another idea also that I'm going to write some time. It's—"
"Well," said the successful playwright, with a glance at the drink, "I'll write it with a flourish, and you'll certainly come to the right place to write it."
And he hastened back to his job. I presume there's a point to the story—something to the general effect that talking about what you are going to do isn't exactly the same as doing it.

poetry, there was another poet in the neighborhood far more talented. Everybody agreed that if he would only take time to write down some of his stuff he could make a reputation for himself. But he dilly-dallied and just talked about the poems he was going to write without ever getting at the job. Homer got all the credit for being the best poet in those parts—because he wrote his.

I suppose every town has at least one fellow who would be a great hit if he would just do the thing he is always talking about.

How to Achieve Beauty

NECK EXERCISE FOR SYMMETRY AND RELAXATION

Today I am going to tell you of a few exercises that will help make the proportions of your neck symmetrical, whether it is too thin and needs building up or whether it is too fleshy and needs toning down.

First, we will consider the thin neck which needs developing and building up, and I will tell you of a few exercises and treatments that I am sure will prove beneficial if properly and consistently followed.

To fully develop the muscles of the neck, several exercises are necessary. One that I have found particularly beneficial is as follows:

Lie flat on your back on a couch with your head hanging over. Raise your head upward and over until your chin touches your chest, repeat six or eight times. This helps develop the muscles along the front of the neck. Then reverse your position so that you are lying face downward. Raise your head backward and upward as far as you can. In this way the muscles at the back of the neck are developed. Then stand up and twist the head from side to side to develop the muscles at the side of the neck.

Shoulders that are too thin and in which the bones are conspicuous can be improved considerably by exercising the arms, for the muscles that move the upper arms are in the shoulder. Stand erect, chest forward, arms stretched out in front of you, with hands clenched and palms up. Keeping the arms close to the sides, bend elbows and draw arms backwards as far as possible. Raise arms over head, then bend elbows, bringing the arms down close to the sides.

"The sporting and emotional side of politics probably make as strong an appeal as ever, but is there not a palpable decline in the deeper political consciousness of the people and in their interest in political thought and thinking?"—Governor Ritchie, Maryland.

"Japan is ahead of America in wooing China's market. Japan is playing the game carefully, trying to keep China's friendship and Great Britain's as well. America will not forge ahead of Russia and Japan until she recognizes that her industries are on foreign soil and are subject to the same restrictions that American industries are in Germany or Great Britain. We wouldn't dare send gunboats up the Rhine. It would be an act of war."—Dr. H. G. Robeson.

"Doors of opportunity will be opened for the youth of today, and if they have obedient feet they may enter it. Before them shall be spread the golden harvest fields of success and they may gather in abundantly—if they have hands of wisdom. They shall see (if they have such eyes of confidence and faith) the rising of tomorrow's sun."—Uldine Utley.

"Like all other countries America has entered a period of transition, but who can see beyond a very limited horizon? We, the elders of this generation, however, are responsible for the generation that must take our places. We must leave to our young people what we have had from the past. They are not the makers of the future—we are, by the qualities that we hand on."—Cardinal Hayes.

"In the past decade there have been two gigantic attacks upon democracy both in Europe and in America. I refer to militarism on the one hand, bolshevism on the other. Both of these in the last analysis represent an organized and deliberate blow at democracy."—Bishop A. W. Leonard.

INTESTINAL INDIGESTION

Constant Reader: I am suffering with intestinal catarrh, which clogs the bile duct, thus causing fermentation of food in the intestinal tract, auto-intoxication and malnutrition. How can I cure it?

I am not inclined to admit that your reason, ing is correct, as a n tested in your letter, for intestinal catarrh would not be apt to obstruct the bile duct, and even if it did shut off the flow of bile into the intestine, it would not necessarily produce the other symptoms you have mentioned. Intestinal indigestion means, of course, that for some reason or other the food stuffs which are normally digested in the small intestine by the pancreatic juice, that is to say, the starches and fats, are not so digested.

Perhaps there is insufficiency in quality or quantity of the pancreatic juice, and perhaps there may also be some defect as to the quantity or quality of the bile, and while we do not know with exactitude the function of the bile in the operation of digestion, we have good reason to believe it aids in breaking up the fats which are taken in as foods.

The pancreatic juice is alkaline in its reaction, and it neutralizes the acid contents of the stomach, which have been projected from the stomach into intestine after the proteid or albuminous portion of the food which has been eaten has been digested by the gastric juice.

The pancreatic juice also emulsifies fats, and when it is deficient in quantity or quality there will be an excess of fats as a result, putrefaction of the digested proteid material, fermentation of the starches and fats and accumulation of fluids, gases and bacteria in the intestines, in other words, intestinal indigestion.

The consequence of this may be painful distension of the bowels with gas and intestinal catarrh, as mentioned in your letter, with offensive watery evacuations, or the watery elements may be absorbed in the large bowel, the remaining contents become hard and very troublesome constipation follows. The abundant supply of bacteria in the intestine will produce decomposition and cause the development of various poisons, which may be absorbed to a greater or less degree. Indian and indianaria are among the results of this form of indigestion.

Of course careful regulation of the diet will be required and flushing of the digestive tract from one end to the other to give it, if possible, a completely new start.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. B.: 1. Can people with high blood pressure bathe in the salt water with safety? 2. Am 50, my lips are bluish in color all the time, but especially at the time of my monthly illness, and am also weak and have a constant pain in the region of my heart. 3. My blood seems to be very poor; would you suggest a good tonic?

Answer—1. Salt water bathing is not usually advisable when the blood pressure is high, particularly if the heart is in bad condition, as yours would seem, to me. The reaction in such cases is usually too violent, warm baths are preferable. 2. You should have your heart examined by one who is familiar with heart diseases. Do not put it off. 3. The combination of iron, quinine and strychnia is usually helpful in cases like yours.

Ask Dr. Currier that medical question that has been puzzling you. Confine your letter to fifty words and send stamped, addressed envelope for reply. He cannot, of course, make individual diagnosis, and he reserves the right to decide as to the propriety of queries.

TUBERCULAR CATTLE TESTS IN COUNTY LOW

SMALL PERCENTAGE REACTS TO INITIAL EXAMINATION HERE

Beaver Creek Twp. Shows Highest Reaction Of Herds Tested

With completion of the work this week in Beaver Creek Twp., 3,900 cattle in Bath and Beaver Creek Twp., will have undergone the tuberculin test conducted by federal and state authorities with Dr. C. J. Wickham in charge.

Two and one half or 3 per cent of the cattle in Bath Twp., and 5 or 6 per cent of the Beaver Creek cattle reacted to the test, according to County Agent J. R. Kimmer. This is considered a good percentage, since in some of the northern counties, 65 and 70 per cent of the cattle in certain townships were found to be infected with tuberculosis when examined.

The greatest number of reactors found so far in Greene County, was in Beaver Creek Twp., where one entire herd of fifteen dairy cows was suffering from tuberculosis, and in another herd, fourteen cows reacted. Dairy cows and all animals used for breeding purposes are tested, but feeding cattle are exempt.

As soon as the first test is completed in Beaver Creek Twp., a re-test will be made in Bath Twp., in order to detect any cattle which may have developed the malady since the first test was made, and to find animals that are known as "seeders." Re-tests will be made in each township, and a re-test of the entire county after all townships are completed.

So far stock owners in the townships of Bath, Beaver Creek, Sugar Creek, Cedarville and Caesar Creek, have signed up for the testing, and Spring Valley and Xenia Twp., have virtually signed up to the 75 per cent of owners required before the test can be made. It is expected that all townships will be signed up for the test. While it is necessary for 75 per cent of the cattle owners to sign the contract for the testing of their cattle for tuberculosis, if 90 per cent of the farmers in any area agree to the testing the additional ten per cent can be forced to submit to it.

Animals which react to the test are killed under federal inspection. Those which show only slight trace of the condition, are used for beef. Expense of reimbursing owners for the cattle confiscated is borne jointly by the federal and state governments. Owners are paid two thirds of the difference between the appraisal value of their animals and the salvage price, provided it does not exceed $50 for an grade animal and $80 for a registered animal.

QUOIT CLUB LOSES MATCH TO DAYTON

In its first invasion of foreign courts, the Xenia Quoit Club was defeated by the N. C. R. team at Dayton by a score of 12 to 6 in a Miami Valley Quoit League match Monday night.

The defeat pushed Xenia deeper into last place in the league standings. Merritt and Hibbert and Devoe and Jeffries won two games for Xenia.

Xenia will play its second home match of the season against the Shrine Club of Dayton on the local grounds next Monday night, and hopes are entertained of climbing out of the cellar.

ROTARIANS DEFEAT JUNIOR BUSINESS MEN IN LEAGUE TILT

Springing a four-run rally in the last half of the ninth inning, the Rotary Club overcame a three-run lead to administer a 10 to 9 defeat, the initial setback of the season, for the Junior Business Men in a Xenia Recreation League softball game Monday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

Kimber pitched a steady game for the Rotarians and was accorded fine support in the field. Behind his strong hurling, the winners acquired a 6 to 2 lead in the first seven innings, but the business men jumped into the lead by tallying six times in the first of the eighth and another run in the ninth. Then the Rotarians won out in the last frame, after one batter was out, Kimber driving in the tying run and R. Tull the winning tally.

Junior Business Men were tied for leadership of the league and the defeat left the Central High School team in undisputed possession of first place. The business men will play off a postponed game with the high school Wednesday night.

MAYOR RECEIVES RAILROAD MEDAL

Mayor John W. Prugh has received a bronze medal, sent by the president and directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co., in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the railroad.

The medal, a bronze disc, pictures the advancement of steam transportation. The B. and O. railroad was the first railroad to operate its lines for public handling of passengers and freight in 1830.

One side of the medal depicts one of the most modern trains of the line, the "Capitol Limited" or the "National Limited," drawn by one of the largest and most modern passenger locomotives built, which is guided by a mythical figure synonymous with the general idea of the "Spirit of Transportation."

The reverse side shows the "Tom Thumb," designed by Alderman Peter Cooper, New York, the first steam locomotive, built in the United States, in 1827, even though it was never put into practical service.

Hans Schuler, director of Maryland Institute, Baltimore, Md., is the sculptor who designed the medal.

ROTARIANS PLAN TO ENTERTAIN VETS

Xenia Rotarians will be hosts to Civil War veterans next Tuesday at a special luncheon arranged in honor of the former soldiers, it was announced at the weekly luncheon meeting at the Elks Tuesday. This is the second annual affair of this nature at which Rotarians have been hosts. The first, which was held last spring preceding Memorial Day, was an occasion of much pleasure to the veterans and their hosts.

Rotary is arranging to entertain Carmel Thompson, former secretary of state and Republican candidate for the governorship, on Tuesday May 31. Mr. Thompson was a special representative of President Coolidge last summer on a mission to investigate conditions in the Philippines, is expected to talk about that trip and its results.

Miss Lois Grigsby, teacher of English in Central High School, addressed Rotarians at noon Tuesday, on "A Southerner's Viewpoint of the Civil War." Miss Grigsby was brought up in the south, and her talk gave many interesting insights on the attitude of the southern bred person toward the war of the rebellion.

THREE RELEASED ON BOND AFTER ARREST FOR STEALING OIL

Disappearance of nearly 100 gallons of lubricating oil from a tank car overturned in a ditch as a result of the derailment of three cars of an eastbound Baltimore and Ohio freight train opposite the O. S. and S. O. Home Saturday night, is believed to have been cleared up by the arrest of three men, living in the vicinity.

The men under arrest are: Rufus Jenks, 49, Kennedy St.; Frederick Hilliard, 46, and Oliver Harner, 45, both of Orient Hill.

Kenneth C. Barr, county road policeman, who made the arrests after co-operating in the investigation with railroad detectives, discovered ten gallons of the missing oil at the home of Jenks, ten gallons at Hilliard's home and nine gallons in the possession of Harner, he reported.

The trio was released under bond pending their arraignment either Tuesday or Wednesday.

The box car contained eighty-one drums of oil, each holding fifty-five gallons, or a total supply of 4,455 gallons.

Officials investigating the robbery which occurred Sunday morning and night, found one drum had been broken open and a second also opened. The drums had apparently been drained and the oil removed in buckets and cans.

Although 100 gallons were missing, authorities have not been able to account for the remainder of the oil.

Cheery Advice To Nervous Women!

"Through overwork and worry I suffered a severe nervous breakdown in health," said Mrs. Raymond Rhoades, of 20 Camp St., Ashtabula, Ohio. (Picture above.)

"My nerves seemed to go all to pieces, I would break out all over with a nervous rash, my back ached, I grew so weak and nervous that I was scarcely able to do anything—at the least exertion I would be completely fagged out. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I got along all right, my nerves quieted down, I never had any more rash and I grew strong. I was greatly improved in health in every way by taking the 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Obtain Dr. Pierce's Prescription now, in liquid or tablet form, from your druggist or send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's in Buffalo, N. Y.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Rovin' Ritzies

By Flo Frederick

Patsy Sets a Lunch

On the sill for birds to munch. "Why not set a window sill lunch counter for birds?" thought Patsy, the artist member of the Ritzie club. "Spring is almost here and the birds are looking about for places to build their nests. Maybe they will build in our trees if they find a lunch counter so close at hand."

Once a Ritzie gets an idea, there is not much time lost in carrying it out.

Patsy chose a window on the quiet side of the house for her lunch counter (their house being on a corner lot, the one side was much noisier than the other).

It was lucky that there was a lilac bush close to the window and vines crawling up the side of it because a shady and sheltered window is better accepted by the birds.

She made a trip to the alley where a little evergreen tree stood on guard and broke off several of the small branches. When she was ready to fasten the branches to the window sill, Marty, her brother and fellow Ritzie, offered his services.

He fastened them securely to the window frame in a position

she did not make the mistake of setting out the wrong things.

She found some canary seed in the house and this with several bread crumbs, a piece of doughnut and a bit of apple was the first lunch counter meal that she served.

An old cup served as a water dish. The first two or three days slipped by without any customers at the lunch counter, but Patsy was not worried, because she knew that birds were timid about a new place, so she changed the water every day and put out fresh seed and scraps.

One morning as she was eating her dish of cornflakes, she happened to glance up at the window. She could hardly believe her eyes!

There was a robin redbreast, contentedly pecking at a bread crust. "Oh, Marty, Marty, come quickly," she called. Her brother came running to see what it was all about and was just as delighted as his sister to see the morning visitor.

From that day on, the lunch counter was very popular. The robin had told all the birds in the neighborhood about the lovely lunch that was set for them because it suddenly became very near the sill so that the birds could sit upon them while eating from the window sill lunch counter.

With the lunch counter nicely arranged on the outside, Patsy turned her attention to the inside of the window. Of course there should be something green on this side as well as on the outside of the window and Patsy was very glad when her mother told her she could place several potted ferns in the window. They wouldn't need much sunlight and so the shade couldn't hurt them.

There was already a net curtain on the window so that worked in fine, for you see Patsy was arranging it so that the birds couldn't see inside and become frightened at the people moving about the house.

Now that the lunch counter was ready, the next thing was to set the lunch that would attract the birds to her window. Patsy had learned from her bird book the kind of things that birds like, so busy. Patsy is sure that when the girls and boys hear about her window sill lunch counter for birds that they will want to build them too, so here are her suggestions for food that will attract the birds.

If you live in the country, give them small grains like oats and wheat. If you live in the city and need to buy seed, hemp, millet, canary and sunflower seed are best. Suet, scraps of meat, celery, lettuce, apple and raisins are appreciated.

Patsy says you will find it great fun to make friends with the birds over the lunch counter and that after a short time they become quite tame.

CHILDREN'S SAVING CARDS FEATURE OF CHAUTAUQUA PLANS

Designed to stimulate interest in Junior Town, which will be a children's feature of the Redpath Chautauqua in Xenia this year, 368 Chautauqua savings cards have been distributed among school children here.

The cards contain fifteen spaces which are to be filled in with dimes and nickels. There are ten spaces for dimes and five for nickels. The card, when filled by the child, will contain $1.25, the price of a season's Chautauqua ticket for children from 6 to 14 years of age.

As each space is filled, the enclosed cover should be attached as indicated by numbers on the diagram and stickers. When completely filled the sticker will read: "Now I Can Enjoy Chautauqua."

The cards should then be turned in to the Rev. W. H. Tilford, who will give the children credit for juvenile tickets until the regular supply of Chautauqua tickets arrive. The tickets will then be mailed to the children who have complied with the savings method.

Chautauqua officials are endeavoring to arouse enthusiasm in Junior Town this year and the savings cards have been successful in various other communities where the plan has been used as an experiment. Daily stories and games in the morning devoted to children.

CHARLES H. DILL CALLED BY DEATH

Charles H. Dill, 75, virtually a life long resident of Springfield, and for many years proprietor of a barber shop there, died at 2:45 o'clock Monday afternoon, the result of paralysis, by which he was stricken last Thursday night.

Alone in his room over his barber shop, Mr. Dill was able to reach and unlock the door after being stricken, and was found by friends who investigated the falling morning when he failed to appear in his shop at the usual time. He had been in failing health for two years.

Mr. Dill was born in Mt. Holly, near Springfield, December 25, 1851. For more than thirty-five years he had conducted a barber shop in the same room in Springfield, and was widely known. He was unmarried and the nearest surviving relative is a half sister, Mrs. Amy Howland of Dayton. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and of the following lodges: Masonic at New Burlington; Dayton Shrine; Knights of Pythias at Bellbrook; Xenia Elks, No. 665 and the I. O. O. F. of Springfield Valley.

The body was taken to the home of his niece, Mrs. William Reeves in Springfield Valley. Funeral services will be held at the M. E. Church in Springfield Valley Wednesday at 2 p. m. Friends meeting at the Reeves home at 1:30. Burial in Springfield Valley Cemetery.

Home Treatment For Gall Stones Highly Praised

Reports From Many Grateful Users Say It Saved Them an Operation. Pleasant and Inexpensive to Use.

For over a year now, many drug stores throughout the middle west have been recommending an inexpensive tablet called "Klax-Ko" for the successful home treatment of gall stones, gall bladder trouble and hepatic torpidity.

According to written reports the simple home use of "Klax-Ko" tablets has produced wonderfully beneficial results in hundreds of cases. Men and women of all ages, but particularly those in middle life seem to be especially benefited. One man says—"I suffered greatly from gall stones and liver trouble. Doctor said I must have an operation. The night before I was scheduled for the hospital a friend insisted I try 'Klax-Ko' tablets first. I commenced to feel better and in a few days was out of the house and back to work and I haven't ever had an attack since. I surely am grateful for 'Klax-Ko'."

If you are bothered by dizzy spells, headaches, shortness of breath, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness and restless night, you should give "Klax-Ko" tablets a trial at once, and you are invited to do so without slightest risk of cost unless fully pleased with results. Ask Sayre's Drug Store or any good druggist for Klax-Ko today. —Adv.

"Yes, dear, you can be friends with Wynne because I ask it."

you are going to do, for no man can tell what a girl will do under any circumstances, but I know what I am going to do. I'm going to change the entire map of Phillip Wynne Tracy IV's face. He may not be old enough for that interesting lady who has her claws on him but he will have enough seams and scars on that handsome mug of his when I get through with him to make him look old enough to be that hankering female's father.

"I'll knock him into the middle of next week and keep him there until this week has time to catch up with him. I'll—"

"Rod—"

Nattie laid her hands on Rodney Maxwell's arm. She looked down into his face which was now divided between smiles and tears.

"Rod," she repeated, "I have never known you to get so excited."

"There's a lot of things you don't know about me, Nat, but if the knowledge that I love you, dear, will be of any comfort to you at this time I want you to have it."

Nattie nestled a little closer to him.

"I know I am not handsome like Wynne and I know I am rather dumb, but that hasn't kept me from picking out the loveliest and best I know in the world to love—"

"No—don't stop me—I'm wound up now and I must get all this off my chest before I run down."

"I will not bother you again, dear, with my foolish dreams. I know I never had a chance beside Wynne—damn him—but I want you to know that that has never made any difference to me. I would rather love you knowing that I could never have you than be the white-haired boy of a Helen of Troy or a Lillian Russell."

He had been talking fast for he knew that he must make the lovely golden head which had now come to rest just above his heart raise itself in gallant courage again.

"Nattie must not feel herself deserted," he said to himself. "I'll make that plaster saint come back to her on his knees and ask her for forgiveness and beg for mercy or I'll make him into something that even his mother will shrink from."

His words did accomplish what he wanted them to for the first time in his life he told himself, for presently he looked into eyes that had lost their misty sadness and had become cold steel again.

"ROD, you have always been my knight of the—"

"One track mind," he supplied, "but that track runs straight to you."

"Nattie, I promise you, if it will make you any happier, that you shall receive back that piece of damaged goods very soon. I shall see that you have Phillip Wynne Tracy IV tomorrow or whenever you want him or he need never speak to me again."

"You mustn't think of it, Rod—he will be unhappy enough without losing his friend. Promise me, dear, that you will stick by him whatever he does."

appointed with him, for you are his friend."

"I can't do it, Nattie—you are asking too much of me. I have always been Wynne's friend, but I think that from the time I could speak your name I, too, have been your lover. Yes, before I consciously knew what love meant I loved you. Ask me anything but that. I cannot be friends with any one who could hurt you."

"Yes, dear—you can be friends with Wynne because I ask it."

Hardly believing it could be so for one fleeting instant Rod felt Nattie's soft lips against his but his heart hardened for after their delicate touch he tasted the bitter salt of her tears.

Before he could speak, however, she had opened the door of the taxi and was speeding up to the door of the apartment house where her Aunt Julia lived.

Rodney Maxwell cursed himself for his loquacity for when he had reached the doorway she was just about to enter the elevator. "Good night, Rod," she called. "I'll see you very soon."

The young people at Mrs. Tracy's party with the exception of Rod and Nattie stayed until the last dance was played.

Phillip thought they would never go home and his mother, who noticed his bored face, was sure it was because Nattie had left so early.

"If you can make him tell you if he has had a quarrel with that little Jones girl," she said to Mrs. Hilliard. "By his looks and actions he is telling every one now that he wishes the whole thing were over."

"Wynne, dear, you must back up," was what Lyra told him the next time he danced with her. "Your mother and I are afraid that others of your guests have noticed how bored you look. Your mother, of course, thinks it is because Miss Jones has left. If that were the case, dear, I won't blame you, for you must know that she is unusually beautiful."

"Yes, Nat's lovely all right," answered Phil listlessly, "but she has no personality—she may get it in time—oh, dearest, if you only knew how all these young girls of no understanding bore me. They only think of themselves and a good time—they never stop to consider the other fellow."

"Lyra, I am sometimes sorry that you ever came here to show me the difference between those dancing shadows and a real woman—I am wanting you, dear, and I am nearly frantic because I cannot tell all those silly boys and girls dancing around me that I want you."

"You'll come down to the car for that ride as soon as possible after we get home—won't you?"

"Yes, I'll come, Wynne—"

His face lighted dangerously for his mother was watching—"You also must know Wynne, it will be a terrible risk," added Lyra.
